MARK SANFORD
GOVERNOR

OFFICE OF EXECUTIVE
POLICY AND PROGRAMS

March 20, 2006

TO MEMBERS OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY, UNITS OF THE CRIMINAL AND JUVENILE JUSTICE SYSTEMS, VICTIM ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS, AND INTERESTED PARTIES:

In accordance with law, we are pleased to transmit the FY 2004-05 Crime Victims' Ombudsman (CVO) Annual Report to the legislature, relevant institutional systems and the general public. This report summarizes the purposes and activities of the CVO for the previous fiscal year.

The South Carolina Constitution and accompanying statutory provisions of law provide for victims' rights to justice and due process. The CVO, established under the Office of the Governor, plays a vital role in ensuring that the rights of the victim are protected to the fullest extent. This includes insuring that all victims are treated with dignity, fairness and respect.

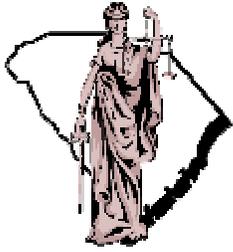

The Ombudsman provides victims with referrals to assistance programs, acts as a liaison between victim and the justice system, and reviews and resolves complaints of victims when necessary. All of these ombudsman's services are critical to those victims who have suffered direct or threatened physical, emotional, or financial harm as a result of a crime.

As governor, I believe that the rights of victims are of the utmost importance and acknowledge the dedication and hard work of the Crime Victims' Ombudsman and her staff.

Sincerely,

A MESSAGE FROM THE CRIME VICTIMS' OMBUDSMAN

March 20, 2006

The welfare of crime victims is crucial to us and the Office of the Crime Victims' Ombudsman (CVO) strictly follows the mandate set forth in establishing this office in regard to serving crime victims. It is essential that we also maintain effective working relationships with agencies and organizations that provide direct victim services. These relationships are vital to us in resolving victims' concerns.

As you review this year's annual report, you will notice some changes in the layout. Our goal in making these changes is to provide a more cogent and reader-friendly report of the statistics for the fiscal year. Selected case summaries and charts showing current data in comparison with data from previous years are also included.

In FY 2004-05, the CVO received approximately 1,800 phone calls. Of those calls, 497 constituents became referrals/assists in the CVO and 48 new formal cases were handled along with other formal cases opened from the prior year by the CVO. Resolutions in the formal cases have involved an array of actions, including disciplinary response on the part of the agency against whom the complaint was filed, procedural changes as deemed necessary, and even agency-wide policy change where needed.

As ombudsman, I look forward to continuing my duties to assist crime victims of this state. If I or my office can be of any assistance to you, please do not hesitate to contact us with any questions and/or concerns.

Sincerely,

Mission Statement

And

Purpose

Mission Statement

The mission of the Office of the Crime Victims' Ombudsman (CVO) is to ensure that all crime victims are served justly, equitably and fairly by South Carolina's criminal justice organizations.

Purpose

The CVO's primary responsibility is to receive and respond to complaints filed by victims of crime. These complaints may be verbal or in writing and the CVO, as mandated by law, responds to each complaint in one of three ways:

- 1) Refer crime victims to the appropriate element of the criminal and juvenile justice systems or victim assistance programs, or both when services are requested by crime victims or necessary as determined by the ombudsman;
- 2) Act as a liaison between elements of the criminal and juvenile justice systems, victim assistance programs, and victims when the need for liaison services is recognized by the ombudsman; and,
- 3) Review and attempt to resolve complaints against elements of the criminal and juvenile justice systems or victim assistance programs, or both made to the ombudsman by victims of criminal activity within the state's jurisdiction.

Most questions and concerns from victims of crime are easily remedied using the first and second methods. In other cases, the third method brings an appropriate resolution. Verbal communication and discussion between the CVO, the subject of the complaint and the crime victim usually results in a timely and appropriate resolution. However, should the victim require a formal inquiry, the victim must file a written, signed complaint. By choosing this option, the CVO then has the authority to initiate an inquiry. The CVO forwards a copy of the complaint to the subject of the complaint and requests their assistance in providing information about the concerns listed in the complaint by the crime victim. Once the CVO has gathered all the necessary information from complainants, the CVO issues a report verbally or in writing to both parties as to the disposition and recommendations of the CVO. The CVO then requests a final report (verbal or written) from the subject of the complaint as to any actions they have taken regarding the recommendations by the CVO.

Additionally, although the majority of the work handled by the CVO is complaint resolution, the CVO is also a valuable educational resource for criminal and juvenile justice organizations. Through a State Victims' Assistance Program (SVAP) grant from the S. C. Department of Public Safety, Office of Justice Programs, the CVO, in April 2005 was able to conduct training on the Constitutional Amendment and the application of "best practices" from each discipline in the criminal and juvenile justice systems. The training was well-received by all attendees, and there are plans to offer this training regionally and year-round.

It is apparent, as all members of the criminal and juvenile justice system continue to work within this constitutional framework, that training in the area of compliance is crucial to ensuring the scales of justice are balanced. As such, it becomes more incumbent upon the CVO to provide frequent informational training.

Types of Complaints (Fiscal Year 2004-05)

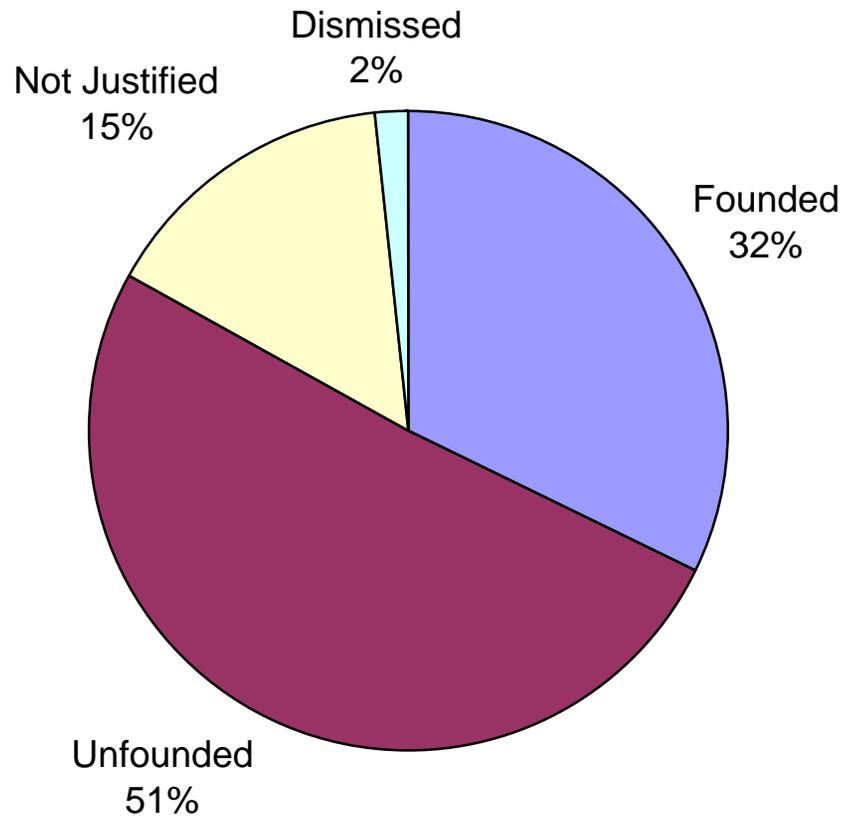

Complaint Resolutions

The number of complaints per fiscal year is almost always more than the number of cases opened by the CVO because a victim(s) may have several complaints for the same situation and only one case is opened by the CVO. For example, a victim may have a complaint about not having been notified by a magistrate about a bond hearing and depending on the outcome of the bond hearing the victim may also complain about not having been notified by the jail about the defendant's release. One case would be opened but with two complaints against two separate agencies.

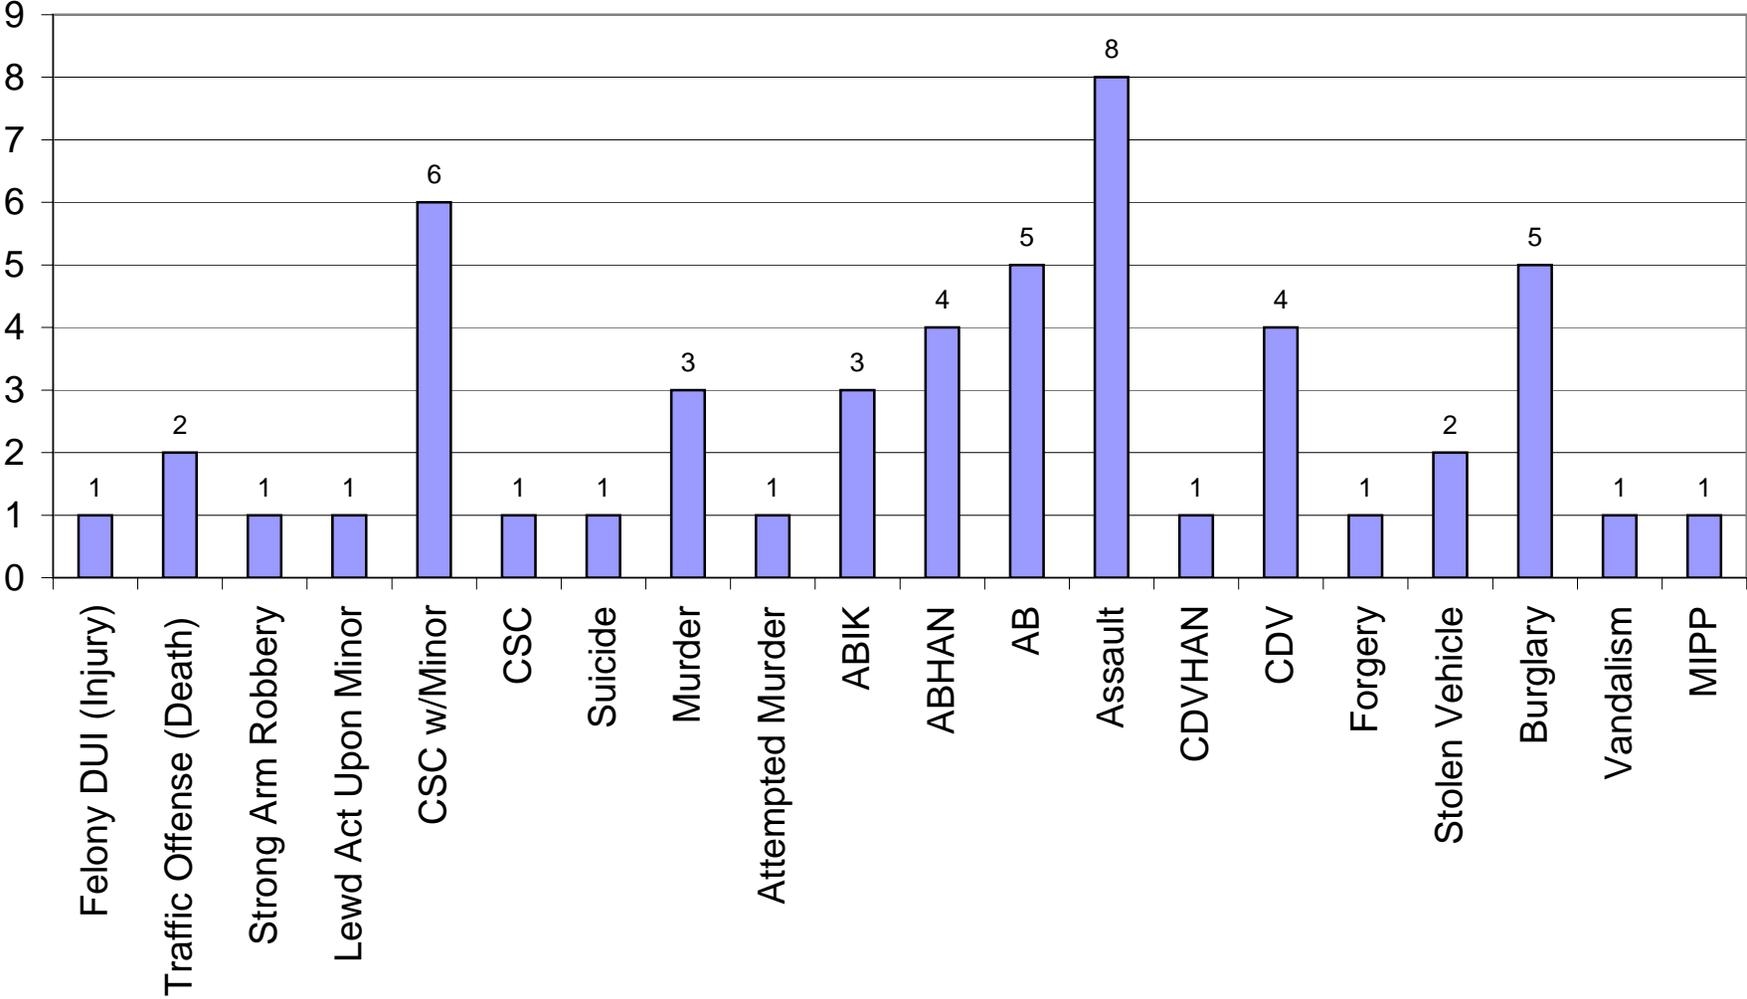

The following is an explanation of the terms used by the CVO to make a final determination as to the outcome of a case along with the number and percent of each resolution.

Founded	19	32%	The reported acts or part of the reported acts occurred.
Unfounded	30	51%	The reported acts did not occur or the reported acts did occur but were within the scope of authority for that individual, agency or entity.
Not Justified	9	15%	There was insufficient evidence to prove or disprove the reported acts occurred.
Dismissed	1	2%	The case was withdrawn due to lack of victim participation.
Total	59	100%

The rights created in this section may be subject to a writ of mandamus, to be issued by any justice of the Supreme Court or circuit court judge to require compliance by any public employee, public agency, the State, or any agency responsible for the enforcement of the rights and provisions of these services contained in this section, and a wilful failure to comply with a writ of mandamus is punishable as contempt.

(C) For purposes of this section:

(2) "Victim" means a person who suffers direct or threatened physical, psychological, or financial harm as the result of the commission or attempted commission of a crime against him. The term "victim" also includes the person's spouse, parent, child, or lawful representative of a crime victim who is deceased, who is a minor or who is incompetent or who was a homicide victim or who is physically or psychologically incapacitated.

Offenses Against the Person
ARTICLE 15
VICTIM AND WITNESS SERVICE

SECTION 16-3-1505. Legislative intent.

In recognition of the civic and moral duty of victims of and witnesses to a crime to cooperate fully and voluntarily with law enforcement and prosecution agencies, and in further recognition of the continuing importance of this citizen cooperation to state and local law enforcement efforts and to the general effectiveness and the well-being of the criminal and juvenile justice systems of this State, and to implement the rights guaranteed to victims in the Constitution of this State, the General Assembly declares its intent, in this article, to ensure that all victims of and witnesses to a crime are treated with dignity, respect, courtesy, and sensitivity; that the rights and services extended in this article to victims of and witnesses to a crime are honored and protected by law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and judges in a manner no less vigorous than the protections afforded criminal defendants; and that the State has a responsibility to provide support to a network of services for victims of a crime, including victims of domestic violence and criminal sexual assault.

SECTION 16-3-1510. Definitions. (For the purpose of this article)

(1) "Victim" means any individual who suffers direct or threatened physical, psychological, or financial harm as the result of the commission or attempted commission of a criminal offense, as defined in this section. The terms “crime”, “criminal conduct”, “charge”, or any variation of these terms as used in this article mean all misdemeanors and felonies under state law except the crimes the General Assembly specifically excludes from the notification provisions contained in this article.

(4) “Witness” means a person who has been or is expected to be summoned to testify for either the prosecution or the defense or who by reason of having relevant information is subject to be called or likely to be called as a witness for the prosecution or defense for criminal offenses defined in this section, whether or not any action or proceeding has been commenced.

The prosecuting agency, court, or both, may require documentation of all claims. This information may be included in a written victim impact statement.

(G) A law enforcement agency must provide any measures necessary to protect the victims and witnesses, including transportation to and from court and physical protection in the courthouse.

(H) In cases in which a defendant has bond set by a summary court judge:

(1) the arresting agency of the defendant reasonably must attempt to notify each victim of each case for which bond is being determined of his right to attend the bond hearing and make recommendations to the presiding judge. This notification must be made sufficiently in advance to allow the victim to exercise his rights contained in this article;

(2) the summary court judge, before proceeding with a bond hearing in a case involving a victim, must ask the representative of the facility having custody of the defendant to verify that a reasonable attempt was made to notify the victim sufficiently in advance to attend the proceeding. If notice was not given in a timely manner, the hearing must be delayed for a reasonable time to allow notice; and
